New Business is Encouraging

29 Nov 1984

Wave
Editorial

With the passage of the Mayflower Resort Project and the announcement of the multi-million dollar concept of Pioneer Micro-technology we view it as a good sign to the economic growth of Wasatch County.

We have now achieved what by many was considered the impossible. That is, the attraction of clean labor intensive industry that will allow us to stem the flow of young people from our valley by providing them with a future here.

It would now be proper to extend to Mayor Jan Furner and the Heber City Council our thanks for their efforts in promoting our community and at the same time extend a welcome to the promise of new industry.

Who knows, residents may be seeing the last days of the best kept secret in Utah — Heber Valley.

New Business Venture Excites Local Merchants

Wave 29 Nov 1984

MIDWAY-Members of Heber Valley's business association were gathered at the Homestead in Midway to be introduced to a new computer business which will be opening in the Heber Industrial Park within the next six months.

Pioneer Micro-Technology will be one of the first businesses in the Heber Industrial Park, and the company has big plans for the Heber Valley area.

Hank Blankenstein, of Pioneer, presented the business community with an idea of what the company will be doing, and where it intends to go.

Blankenstein stated that the company is a new and innovating idea in the construction and design of computer micro chips. The company is trying to enter into the area of custom design chips and semi-conductors.

When the business first opens, it will be specifically the design and development of custom semi-conductor units. The Pioneer people feel that the actual assembly of the conductors would be done somewhere else at first.

Blankenstein stated that when the plant comes into full swing, there may be as many as 400 to 700 new jobs created for the Heber Valley area. He said that the original part of the design will begin immediately, but it may take as long as two years before the actual assembly plant becomes installed.

"We feel that we can contribute something to the industry as a whole," said Blankenstein. He pointed out that the company is now in the process of introducing a new method of design into the industry. The method has been tested, and works. More effectively and with less time than is needed for the present conventional way.

Hank Blankenstein, center, speaks with those invited to attend a luncheon, about a new concept his company has developed in designing semi-conductors on a custom order basis.
